

Calluna honey

Miel de calluna o biércol

- Considered to be the second best honey in the world, this honey is a special honey for its texture, flavors and elaboration. It is collected in the natural parks of the Biosphere Reserve above 1,300 meters high, in autumn. It is very difficult to extract, so that the beekeeper performs a double extraction, first extracts the other honey from the honeycomb and the rest, which does not come out due to its high density, must be punctured and then extracted laboriously.
